Additional Information

Apple cider vinegar

- It is known that many Hollywood celebrities consume it recently.
- It refers to traditional vinegar made by naturally fermenting apple juice.
- The mother of vinegar produced when apple cider vinegar is produced contains lactic acid bacteria and enzymes, offering effects such as detoxification and digestive aid.

* Kombucha

- It started gaining popularity as Hollywood stars like Madonna and Miranda Kerr enjoyed drinking it.
- A raw material obtained by adding raw sugar to green tea or black tea and fermenting it.
- It is rich in microorganisms, yeast, glucuronic acid, etc., so numerous studies have been conducted on its health benefits.

Carefully selected organic phytonutrients

Phyto-nutrients?

It is a compound word of Phyto (Plant) and Nutrient. In other words, it refers to unique nutrients possessed only by plants. Phyto-nutrients are bioactive substances produced by plants to protect themselves from external attacks such as ultraviolet rays, physical stress, and oxidation

What is organic?

Only crops grown on land that has not used any pesticides or chemical fertilizers for at least three years are considered organic.

Even well-known vegetables famous for their health can actually be harmful if grown on barren soil with large amounts of fertilizer and pesticides. You must verify that the produce was grown in fertile soil without fertilizers or pesticides and that it is a trustworthy organic crop!

Far-infrared low-temperature drying , chosen to minimize nutrient loss

Roots and peels are often discarded because they are inconvenient to eat, and key nutrients in vegetables are lost during the cooking process involving high heat. The organic phyto-nutrient ingredients contained in D-Elixir utilize far-infrared low-temperature drying, the optimal drying method to preserve all the nutrients in vegetables from root to peel ! Dry from root to peel using this far-infrared low-temperature drying method, which minimizes nutrient loss and allows for longer storage !

Even the auxiliary ingredients are made sure.
